

An abstract collage artwork featuring torn pieces of paper and paint. The composition is dominated by vertical bands of color: a wide yellow band on the right, a dark blue band in the center, and a red band on the left. Grey and white tones are scattered throughout, often appearing as if they are peeling away from the underlying layers. The overall effect is one of layered, textured light and shadow.

Lumières
dans la ville